PTP-V ROOF WINDOWS INJECT LIFE INTO HOME

Bungalow in Larbert, Stirlingshire

Flooding bedrooms with natural sunlight.

Situated in the cosy town of Larbert, Stirlingshire, another home can now enjoy gorgeous views in addition to boasting a bright, inspirational living space – all thanks to FAKRO roof windows.

Mr Wallace approached FAKRO eager to replace his old, outdated roof windows. Exhibiting particular interest in the classic centre pivot PVC range, two PTP-V skylights were integrated into his bungalow. Installation took just one day for each roof window, from removal of the prior, obsolete windows to the brand new PTP-V's.

FAKRO's PVC roof windows proved to be the ideal solution for this home for a variety of reasons. Offering the same benefits and features as traditional roof windows, they're especially durable, require little maintenance and are a dream to clean. The prior pine windows had to constantly be addressed due to flaking and the varnish discolouring – in contrast, because of their structure and materials, the new windows are immune to this issue. There's a reason FAKRO's PVC windows are referred to as the effortless roof window!

“Installation was exceptionally easy and they look a million times better compared to our previous roof windows.”

Moreover, the elaborate V35 air vent system featured in the PVC range ensures Mr Wallace's home will be thoroughly ventilated even when the window is closed. A constant flow of fresh air guarantees its inhabitants can breathe freely, promoting healthy living.

Initially, Mr Wallace was apprehensive about purchasing his windows before seeing and experiencing them in a tangible sense. However, as soon as they arrived, he was extremely pleased with the quality and appearance.

“ They look and feel amazing quality - I would definitely recommend FAKRO roof windows!

These two PTP-V's certainly freshened up and injected more life into these bedrooms; they're a much more effective alternative to the previous pine roof windows which were no longer fit for purpose.

With bedrooms that look much brighter due to the sleek PVC finish, 'more light is thrown' into this living space and its inhabitants are exposed to plenty of natural sunlight!
